Assistant Navy Secretary Nominated by Acclamation

DELEGATES RUSH HOMEWARD

Convention a Great Success, Party Leaders Declare

SAN FRANCISCO—(By Associated Press.)—Delegates to the Democratic national convention, their work done and the big gathering adjourned in a last roar of enthusiasm for the party standard bearer, Governor James M. Cox, of Ohio and Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, were scrambling Wednesday for train accommodations homeward. Every string of departing sleepers heading east, north or south, was loaded to capacity and men, who will play important roles in the fight for election of the ticket were hurrying away to delayed vacations and on sight seeing tours in the west preparatory to the struggle ahead.

Mr. Roosevelt was due to leave today for Dayton to consult with Governor Cox where preliminary plans for the campaign will be mapped out, subject to amendment when the party machinery is organized and the advisers selected. The assistant secretary intends to resign from the navy department as soon as he can clear up his desk, and will spend ten days or so in Washington for that purpose before shaping his plans for the campaign.

Democratic leaders were elated over the spirit of harmony which marked the last hours of the convention. There had been good feeling and tolerance shown thruout the long struggle to reach a presidential nomination, it was said, but in the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt by acclamation following withdrawal of all other candidates, these leaders saw evidence of difficulties buried and a determination to work hard for victory in the election from which they drew great satisfaction.

It was generally agreed that the convention had been a great success. If noise and unflagging display of enthusiasm were a gauge of that success, there was ample ground for their view. Up to the last, the delegates were ready to cheer or to demonstrate at every opportunity.

In a way the scene Tuesday when Mr. Roosevelt was nominated rivaled that of the break-up early in the morning of the McCadock-Cox deadlock and the Roosevelt nomination. Governor Cox, what it lacked in the tense expectancy of the last ballots, after the action of Attorney General Palmer in releasing his delegates breaking down the barrier that had held the convention helpless for two ballots, the Roosevelt nomination made up in the swiftness with which the decision was reached.

Nominating speeches were again the order of the day, when the convention assembled at noon. Half a dozen candidates were put forward and there was evidence that a strong movement was on to name a man from the west.

RACE RIOT HELD IN CHECK

Armed Men Patrol Town Where Negroes Were Burned

PARIS, Texas. — Extraordinary precautions were being taken here to prevent possible race trouble as a result of the action of a mob in burning at the stake Irving and Herman Arthur, negroes, accused of having killed J. H. Hodges and his son, William White, at the latter's farm near here last Friday.

Armed volunteers were patrolling the streets and there were reports that desultory firing had taken place in the outskirts of the town. Sheriff C. D. Clarkson and his two deputies were away in search of other negroes suspected of implication in the killing of the white men. The mayor of Paris, it is said, was organizing squads of volunteers and sending them into the negro quarter as a safety measure.

According to officials, the Hodges were killed during a dispute over money alleged to be due them from the negro tenants. County officials were discussing a report from Idabel, Okla., quoting Sheriff Clarkson, who passed thru there last night, that the men lynched may not have been guilty. According to R. E. Eubanks, county attorney, however, the negroes while at the jail made circumstantial statements admitting the killings.

COX IS UNDECIDED

Doesn't Know Yet Whether He Will Quit Governorship

DAYTON — (By United Press.)—Governor James M. Cox has not decided yet whether he will or will not resign as governor on account of his campaign as Democratic candidate for the presidency. But it assumed he will not. "The uncertainty between a Republican, Cox's political opponent, Senator Warren C. Harding has not yet resigned from the United States senate."

OHIOAN THINKS "COX AND ROOSEVELT CATCHY"

Governor is Pleased With Selection of Running Mate

SPEAKS AT MIDDLETOWN

Exploiting Class Hatred Dangerous as Bolshevism, He Says

DAYTON, O.—(By Associated Press.)—Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic candidate for president, believes his running mate, Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, will be a good running mate.

"Cox and Roosevelt, that's catchy, isn't it," commented the governor, as he first learned who his associate on the ticket would be from the Associated Press in his home at "Trail's End." The governor had left his newspaper office in the city before the vice-presidential nomination was made and his office had forgotten to telephone him the result.

Governor Cox was sitting in a revolving chair in his library enjoying his pipe and chatting with some newspaper representatives when informed of Mr. Roosevelt's nomination. He appeared well pleased with the selection made by the convention and at once dictated to the newspaper men the congratulatory telegram which he sent to Mr. Roosevelt, also the one sent to his campaign manager, E. H. Moore.

The governor admitted that he was not intimately acquainted with Mr. Roosevelt, but declared him to be a "splendid, capable, courageous and progressive Democrat."

He commented particularly upon two addresses made by the vice-presidential candidate, one before the national Democratic committee in Chicago last winter and the other on Americanization in Dayton. He said Mr. Roosevelt's service in Washington has given him a wide experience and a wide acquaintance.

In his first public address after his nomination in Mide town, Tuesday night, Governor Cox declared, in commenting upon the industrial unrest in the world, that "any attempt to exploit class hatred is equally as dangerous as the Bolshevism in Europe." He asserted that the platform rule works much better than the bullet or the bayonet and that in all industrial disputes there is a middle ground which must be followed in order that justice be done to all.

Similarity Seen In Career of Two Roosevelts

NEW YORK — (By United Press.)—"Roosevelt fans" here Wednesday pointed out the similarity of the careers of the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

Both attended Harvard; both entered the political arena with election to the New York state legislature; both served as assistant secretary to the navy, taking the position when the United States was on the verge of a foreign war and both were nominated for the vice-presidency. Franklin D. Roosevelt's mother was a fourth cousin of the former president. A more intimate relationship, however, was brought about by the marriage of Franklin D. to Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, whose father was the late Colonel Roosevelt's only brother.

Colonel Roosevelt gave his niece in marriage to the present Democratic vice-presidential nominee in March 1905. Colonel Roosevelt was then president.

COX CHIEFS TO BE NAMED SOON

Campaign Managers to be Chosen Within Two Weeks

SAN FRANCISCO—(By United Press.)—The managers of James M. Cox's campaign will be selected in a conference either at Dayton or Columbus, Ohio, within two weeks. At that time, after learning Cox's wishes, the committee will elect a chairman and other officers.

The belief that Homer S. Cummings, present chairman of the national committee, will be Cox's chief to conduct the campaign. Cummings, however, declared Wednesday he is unwilling to take the responsibility for the burden of the campaign on his shoulders, if any one else is available.

Cummings was directed by the national committee to confer with Cox as soon as possible to fix a date for the meeting. A general demand for putting the campaign under way as soon as possible was expressed by members of the committee.

CAMPAIGN BATTLE LINES DRAWN

Republicans Lining up For "Return to Normal" Policy

DEMOCRATS PROGRESSIVE

Harding Settles Down at Home For Long Siege

MARION, O.—(By United Press.)—Harding and Cox have their gloves on Wednesday, ready for the big presidential fight.

Mutual congratulations have been exchanged and the way is now cleared for the struggle. All predictions are for a finish fight between the two Ohio antagonists. The expected Cox offensive will be met with an equally determined counter-attack by the Harding forces. Both have decisive victories to their credit in Ohio.

Indications Wednesday are that the campaign may develop into a conservative-progressive fight with the Republicans insisting on a "return to normal," and the Democrats demanding further legislation of a liberal nature. This line of campaign is indicated both by the platforms of the respective parties and the policies which the two candidates have advocated in the past.

Senator Harding has always considered himself a strong party man, desirous of being "regular" at all times and accepting the verdict of his party colleagues as his own. Governor Cox is known as an aggressive fighter, with his own positive views on public questions.

Senator Harding will continue work on his acceptance speech Wednesday. Later in the week, he expects to see Will Hays, national chairman, here. General T. Coleman DuPont of Delaware is also expected to call relative to arrangements for the notification ceremonies.

The Harding household has settled down to a daily routine. Each morning after breakfast, the senator goes across his back yard to the campaign headquarters in the adjoining house, where he has his office.

During the forenoon, Mrs. Harding is busy with her house work. As marketing time approaches, she can be heard calling across the yard, asking the senator what he wants for dinner. There is an entire absence of commotion and crowd when and then a friend of Mrs. Harding drives up for a brief call and a neighbor may drop in on Senator Harding. There are no visitors about. Practically every one here is an old acquaintance.

Once a shower came up and Mrs. Harding came out on the front porch to take in the large American flag. Senator Harding sometimes leaves his office and walks around the yard examining shrubbery or inspecting the house for possible repairs. Usually the senator's father, Dr. George T. Harding, can be seen nearby, swapping Civil War experiences with some former comrade.

FELL ON TORPEDOES. MAY DIE FROM INJURY

RELAIR, Md.—Fourth of July torpedoes, which exploded in his pocket when he fell on them, caused injuries which may prove fatal to Town Balliff George A. Noonan.

Prior to the Fourth young men in the town had been bursting torpedoes about the town streets, much to the annoyance of town folk and nervous livestock. Balliff Noonan attempted to stop the noise-making, he captured and supplied the objectionable fireworks. He put the booty in his pocket.

In a scuffle with young men which followed, the officer tripped and fell. The torpedoes in his pocket exploded with great force.

RESTRAINING ORDER IN SUFFRAGE CASE ASKED

PEOPLE MUST PAY BILLIONS MORE

Economic Expert Sees Big Boost in Freight Increase

WASHINGTON — (By United Press.)—Approximately $6,000,000 will be added to the nation's living costs for the year beginning with September, J. E. Weatherly, economic expert of the justice department, predicted Wednesday.

Weatherly said he based this prediction on the belief the interstate commerce commission would be forced to increase freight rates approximately $2,000,000,000. An appeal for increases totaling $1,000,000,000 now is being considered by the commission at the request of the railroad managers. Another billion must be added when the railroad labor board grants proposed wage increases to 2,000,000 workers, Weatherly said he assumed.

"Increased freight rates are reflected in living costs, not in straight proportion, but magnified about 4.8," Weatherly said. "This is because the public pays a freight rate increase several times instead of just once."

"One increased rate is paid when the cattle go from the plains where they graze, to the slaughter house. The second increase is paid when the raw hides are shipped from slaughter houses to tanneries, a third from tannery to shoe manufacturing houses and a fourth when the finished shoe goes from the manufacturer to dealer."

"There is another factor, the increased freight rate paid by each dealer or manufacturer, is added to his cost of operation on which he figures his profits on a percentage basis."

"There seems no getting around the fact that a freight rate increase means a tremendous boost in price of every commodity produced in the United States. Every person in the United States is bound to feel its increase. It means a tax of about $50 a year for each of the 100,000,000 persons in the United States."

A decision on the railroads' plea for an increase is expected from the interstate commerce commission soon. Last testimony in the rate hearings was taken Tuesday.

WILSON AND COX WILL CONFER

Will Probably Meet at White House at Early Date

WASHINGTON — Administration officials expect a conference between President Wilson and Governor James M. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, to be arranged soon, they said Wednesday.

It is probable that the conference will be held at the White House. The date of the conference and whether details have not yet been arranged.

Officials here believe the proposed conference would serve as the final halting of rumors that there is any friction between Wilson or his followers and Cox. At the White House, these reports are met with instant denial.

MUST DISARM AT ONCE, EDICT

Allies Demand Peace Terms be Carried Out

PLEA FOR DELAY IS DENIED

Told to Act Immediately or Negotiations End

SPA, Belgium.—(By United Press.)—Unless the German delegates give unequivocal assurances that disarmament, in accordance with the treaty terms will begin immediately, the allies will discontinue negotiations. It was learned from a reliable source Wednesday as both sides held informal conferences preliminary to reconvening of the conference Wednesday afternoon.

Altho Chancellor Fehrenbach declared the situation was serious as a result of the virtual ultimatum of the allies, he was optimistic.

"Negotiations thus far have been very difficult," he said, "but I believe the allies will make necessary concessions in order that Germany's internal order can be maintained."

The allied ultimatum on disarmament has served to clear the air here, making continuance of negotiations contingent upon the Germans agreeing to disarm.

WANT STRONGER ARMY

Dr. Gessler, German minister of defense, who has arrived, declared he was happy to have the opportunity of discussing disarmament, but hinted he would resign unless the allies allowed Germany more favorable terms than so far have been proposed. It was reported that Gessler intended to insist upon a stronger German army, but he refused to admit such intention, aside from saying that Germany needed a strong force and reduction must be made slowly.

The disarmament ultimatum was made by General Lloyd George, spokesman for the allies, following Tuesday's four-hour conference.

He told the Germans to produce a definite disarmament scheme Wednesday or the conference would be discontinued. Fehrenbach made a dramatic appeal for delay but Lloyd George was adamant.

Minister of Finance Simons asked for time in which to obtain employment for demobilized troops.

One of the most interesting incidents of the conference was the speech of Fehrenbach, in asking delay. When Lloyd George had ended a long talk to the Germans, Fehrenbach said that the allied place trust in Germany's good intentions.

"I'm an old man," said Fehrenbach. "I have a reputation for honesty. I have authorized the relief staff to enforce the treaty and I've promised you the same. I was startled before higher power—my God! I don't do my best to fulfill these promises."

Tears trickled down the chancellor's cheeks as he spoke.

His speech had little effect on the British premier, however, and he remained unshaken. He demanded immediate evidence of Germany's intentions. Simons asked that the conference be adjourned and the allies agreed.

DON'T WANT EXCUSES

In the opening debate Lloyd George declared the entente was disappointed with Germany's failure to fulfill the treaty terms. He said that the allies wanted peace and not excuses for the past. He said Germany was entitled to 100,000 men and rifles and 2,000 machine guns. Instead, the British premier continued, Germany has 200,000 men, 50,000 machine guns, 12,000 guns and millions of rifles.

Dr. Gessler, opening the German arguments, declared the reichswehr had been reduced to less than 200,000. He blames strikes and the economic situation for non-fulfillment of the treaty terms. Lloyd-George replied that Germany did not realize the gap that existed between the treaty and its execution. He said there were two dangers in Germany—the right and left groups, and added that it was the allied intention to remove both.

"We do not desire to be harsh or cruel, but we intend to avoid risking trouble either with German militarists or German bolsheviks," the British premier said. "If Germany was sincere, disarmament would have been accomplished long ago. If the Germans produce default plans for destruction of war material, better relations will follow. Otherwise the entente assumes that Germany either does not intend, or is powerless to carry out her obligations."

Lloyd George held private discussions with the Polish representatives regarding Poland's share of the German indemnity and the Danzig question. It was believed Belgium's indemnity protest had been side tracked for the immediate present.

The Italian foreign minister, Count Sforza and the Serbian representative, M. Trumbitch, held frequent discussions between the Jugo-Slavs and Italy regarding the date the armistice would be resumed.

AKRON TIED UP IN CAR STRIKE

Company Demands 7 Cent Fare; 5 Cents Offered

AKRON. — (By United Press.) — Car riders were suit walking or riding motor driven vehicles Tuesday with a downpour of rain seriously handicapping more than 100 open trucks pressed into transportation service.

No sign of resumption of car service was seen. City council in a session Tuesday, offered an ordinance, asking receivership for the Northern Ohio Traction Company. A special session will be held Wednesday to allow the utilities committee to report.

A conference between W. D. Mahon, Detroit, international president traction officials, broke out that wages would not be increased for the men until higher fares were obtained.

Organized labor met last night and voted to back the carmen in their strike, providing they took no part in the higher fare controversy. Carman's union officials advised they would take no part in the fare fight.

The N. O. T. is asking a seven-cent fare. Council has offered five-cent cash fare with six-cent fare in 90 days.

TWO NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

HAVING attended the Republican national convention in Chicago and the Democratic convention in San Francisco, the writer feels that he is in a position to speak somewhat authoritatively in painting a word picture comparing the two big events.

Aside from the number of persons in attendance upon each convention—probably 15,000, they were as completely different as day and night. The Chicago show was a set scene. Nothing was staged in the convention that was not previously planned and carefully rehearsed in the privacy of hotel rooms and committee headquarters by the party bosses. The platform was written months before the convention, it is believed. It is the greatest document ever written in one single respect, in that it says the least in the most words and does not contain one positive statement on any subject, save to scold the President and the Democratic party in a manner that partakes of slander.

The only enthusiasm in the Chicago show was of a character that clearly evidenced the fact that it was manufactured. The keynote address by Senator Lodge was the most cold blooded and inane thing ever foisted on a convention or by a party upon the people. A shiver of apprehension chased up and down the spines of the Republican faithful when the platform was adopted and the candidate selected—and it is still there.

On the other hand, the San Francisco convention was all that the Chicago show was not. There never was a time that the delegates themselves were not in complete control of the situation; the enthusiasm was at all times spontaneous, honest, sincere, deep seated. The keynote address by Homer S. Cummings was a masterpiece. It will go down in history as one of the greatest series of utterances the world has ever heard in political annals. There was more enthusiasm in a minute in the San Francisco show than in the so-called convention in Chicago in a week.

A comparison of the platforms and the records of the candidates and the parties they represent should make it easy for the voter to decide that the Republican party has "no standing in court" in 1920.

FAILURE OF POLAND

THERE looms across the eastern sky a new task for America to perform: It is the duty of this country in friendship to warn Poland against the disastrous imperialism of her government. Whenever new excitement occurs in Europe it is usually because another Polish adventure in militarism is afoot. Poland bids fair to become the new Prussia of Europe. Dominating sabre rattling seems to be the ambition of her most conspicuous public dignitaries.

Long has America sympathized with Poland. It was due to the insistence of this country's representatives at the peace conference that Poland gained her Baltic port of entry at Danzig. Without the aid of America, Poland would still be partitioned among Russia, Germany and Austria-Hungary. Free Poland has stirred the imagination of America, But America cannot approve the Germanized spirit which has grown in Warsaw since the Poles were given their independence.

The latest of Poland's mad adventures is ending in disaster. The belief of the Polish army that it could successfully invade Russia after the European powers had failed to destroy Russia's ever renewed military strength, has met with the failure predicted for it. After a spectacular dash into the Ukraine and the capture of Kieff, the Ukrainian capital, the Poles have had to abandon the city and retreat toward their own territory.

There has never been any legitimate reason for the Ukraine campaign. It appears to have been purely a raid for more territory and power. It has still further delayed the opening of Russia's grain ports to the world and has needlessly added to the suffering of eastern Europe.

Indeed, it is time for Uncle Sam to "talk Turkey" to Poland. That country is forgetting a lot of things. Until the United States came to its aid it was a country of subject peoples. If it be that Poland is ungrateful, there is every good reason for bringing her up with a short turn. There can be no clanking of the sword permitted in that land.

LIMA'S FOURTH OF JULY

LIMA demonstrated Monday that the spirit of the Fourth of July is not dead; that young and old alike remember what this memorable day represents and that they hold in deepest reverence our greatest national holiday. The celebration here was quiet in every respect, devoid of rowdiness and danger. The official designation of the kind of fireworks which could be used and the time for using them kept down the casualty list as well as the fire loss.

The custom of shooting fireworks on the Fourth of July will never die. It is an established custom and one that never grows old for as the boys and girls of today outgrow the desire for them, the ones of tomorrow pick up the practice and carry it on with as much zeal.

It is true there is danger, but with limitations such as were imposed by Lima officials, it is reduced to the minimum. There may have been a few burned hands in the city, but there were no serious accidents and the fire loss was nil. The noise was less than usual, but enough. Everyone should be satisfied with the manner in which the celebration was carried out. Those opposed to noise could not object for it was not excessive. Those who are inclined to a loud, roaring Fourth were satisfied for not enough was ruled out to spoil their fun.

Dealers are to be complimented on their close adherence to the orders regulating the sale of fireworks; city officials handled the affair in a very satisfactory manner and the public had a good time but conducted itself in a most orderly manner.

I do not hate gossip. I only feel sorry for them.
I believe the movies should go in more for good stories and less for "artistic" junk.

WHAT THE STARS PREDICT

This is a quiet day. Heavy storms at sea are predicted wherein there will be great loss of life and cargo.
The stars warn against the prevalence of nervous diseases, during the summer, and both men and women are urged to safeguard their health. Children will suffer especially from disease, according to the stars.
Changes in marriage customs are indicated.
Persons whose birthday this is will have many annoyances but will win success in business. Children born today will have happy, untroubled lives.

YOUR NAME

(By Philip Francis Nowlan)

VARIATIONS—Robertson, Robson, Robinson, Robison, Probert, Probyn, Robinett.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Medieval English; also Welsh.

SOURCE—A given name. Robert was one of the most popular of Christian names in the middle ages in England, more so by far than today, and as an inevitable result the family name of Roberts today is most widespread, as are also the unusual large number of variations from it.

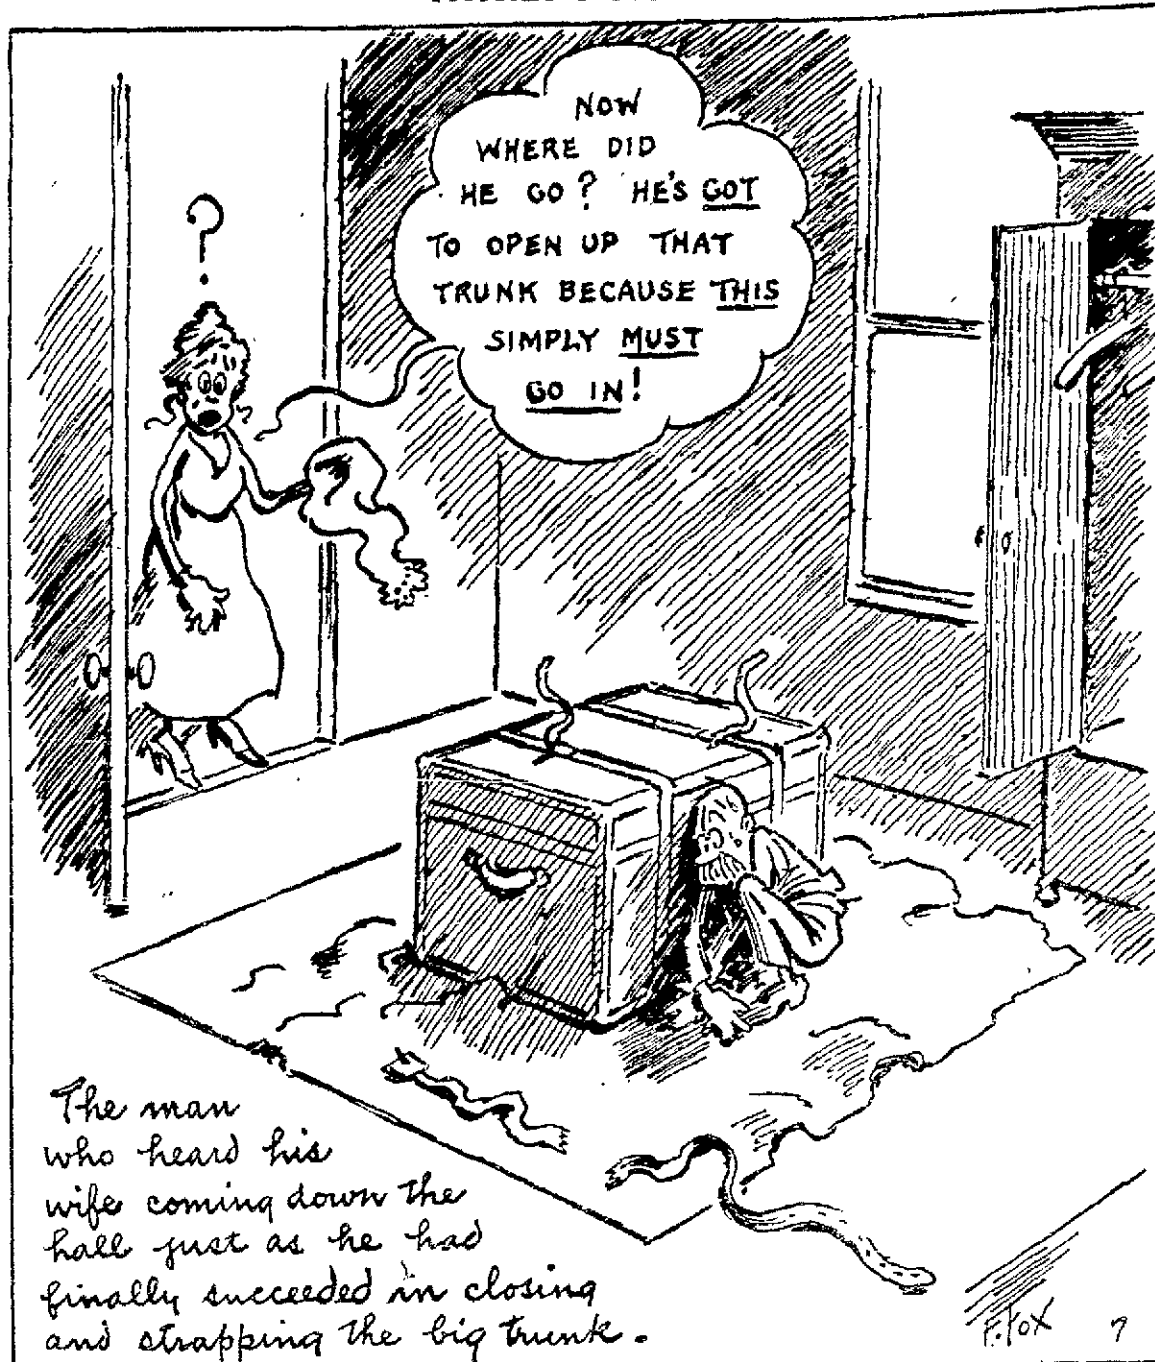

Probably no better illustration could be chosen of the manner in which family names of that class derived from given names developed. The origins of all the variations mentioned in this article, which, by the way, fall far short of completing the full list of Robert names, have been along normal and obvious lines.

As a given name, Robert is of Teutonic origin, coming from two roots: "frued" in the early Frankish tongue ("throutha" in Scandinavian), meaning "fame," and the old word common to all Teutonic tongues signifying "bright," which in German names has developed into "brecht" or "praecht," and in English names into "bert."

Robin was a very common variation of the given name in old England, as was the contraction Rob. From the former has come Robinson, Robison, Robins and Robinett, the last named thru the use of the Norman-French diminutive "et." Robertson, of course, is simply "Robert's son," and Robson is "Rob's son." Probert and Probyn are forms of the name developed in Wales from "Ap-Robert" and "Ap-Robyn," the "ap" being similar to the Gaelic "O'" and "Mac," and the Norman-French "Fitz," and serving the same purpose as the Anglo-Saxon ending, "son."

Tomorrow—Greenwald.

HEALTH HINTS FOR TODAY

HOW DO YOU FUNCTION?—2 BE AN EXPERT

Many a poor geek thinks he has good health as long as he can manage to worry along without the attendance of a regular physician. If he can keep going with the aid of sundry pills, dietary makeshifts and functional props of one kind and another, he imagines he is pretty well. From his point of view a physician is a person to summon when you find yourself irrevocably sick-bed and in fear of your life. Up to that moment it is lots more amusing to gamble with such health as you happen to have. Gambling with your own health and maybe your life at the stake is a most alluring game—many millions of people play the game, people perhaps well educated, too, from the neck up. The average individual who imagines himself quite well, thank you, checks up about 70 per cent when compared with the normal 100 per cent functional efficiency of real health by an expert. These seventy percents, many millions of them, of course, are not sorry about health; they enjoy rather a mild state of chronic morbidity. It is difficult to interest them in the rudiments of health and hygiene, but they are always morbidly interested in the symptoms and treatment of the ailments which charlatans wish on them. No one can really enjoy good health unless he has it—health plus the hundred per cent article. He who has health plus certainly gets a lot of fun out of it that the 70 percenter misses. Every child, he is added to the seventy per cent you already have fortifies you to withstand the exigencies of life and helps you to come up smiling. Your seventy per cent health comes to you by inheritance, by luck, or by legislation. It is the amount of health you wish to do, zones by the state if the state really believes public health is purchasable and appropriates the necessary funds to effect the purchase. But every little bit you add to that 70 per cent of health you inherit is an asset which can't be purchased, something to acquire by personal effort, and not a gift.

Most people consider the health problem from the wrong point of view. They contemplate the negative rather than the positive aspect of the question. Thus an individual who would check himself up is likely to begin, unless properly informed by a health expert, by dragging forth any complaints or morbid symptoms he can muster at the moment. By education and environment he is prompted to inquire "How sick I am" when by rights he should try to find

WILLIAM H. WARBURTON, Proprietor

To the American Legion:

Today the vine-clad hills of the land of Lafayette are dotted with the nameless graves of the American soldiers who paid the debt of Old Glory to the Tri-Color of France.

Today they sleep beside the Aisne, along the old Rheims-Soissons front, and in Flanders Field.

Today the soil of Picardy is consecrated with the blood of the heroes who pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor, to avenge every insult that might be offered to the Stars and Stripes. They did their bit in order that the world might be safe for democracy. They fought and fell that America might carry on for humanity.

Today there are powerful, sinister forces at work striving to tear down the very things that American soldiers fought and bled and died for. Unless the discordant elements in America today can be welded into one harmonious whole, these malicious influences will undo all that the American Soldier accomplished.

ALIEN PROPERTY STILL HELD

$150,000,000 is Ready to Be Returned to Owners

WASHINGTON — The amendment to the Trading with the Enemy Act passed by the recent session of Congress authorizes the return of $150,000,000 of enemy property, according to estimates of the Alien Property Custodian's office. There will remain more than $350,000,000 in seized property in the hands of that official.

Under the amendment, the "A. P. C." as the office is generally known in government circles, will release property of several American noblemen, property of the German embassy, enemy diplomats, all aliens who were interned, citizens of new nations and states created by the Treaty of Peace, and women of allied or neutral countries who married enemy subjects.

Americans who were held in Germany during the war and whose property here was taken over, may now recover title, no matter where they are resident.

The amendment also extends the privilege of prosecuting claims against enemy debtors to creditors in allied and neutral nations on condition that the same privilege is extended to American creditors by those nations holding enemy property.

There is to be no "informal return" of property by the Alien Property Custodian under the new legislation, it was announced. The procedure to be followed in securing possession of seized property involves informal application to the President, and filing of a claim on the A. P. C. After the application has been approved and returned, the Attorney General will issue an order for the release of the property at issue.

MRS. KINDRED WAS GETTING DESPERATE

She Was in Such A Run Down Condition that Life Was Almost a Misery. But Nerv-Worth Soon Rescued Her

"My appetite was poor, and I was losing flesh rapidly," said Mrs. Ida Kindred, 151 Dunlevy St., Dayton, Ohio. "My nerve force was so low I couldn't sleep, but a world of trouble all night. I didn't have the vitality to properly digest my food. I bloated badly, suffered from that tired feeling, and was completely broken down in health. I had severe nervous headaches, which affected my sight. My feet and legs would swell. I was in a desperate condition that required an effective remedy. I found that remedy in Nerv-Worth. One bottle showed splendid effects. I wanted to eat and found that I could digest my food. Gas no longer formed in my stomach. I am gaining in weight, and my headaches no longer bother me. I am feeling good in every way, and I certainly want to praise Nerv-Worth for placing me in this condition. If you are one of the millions who suffer from nervous troubles and low vitality or a general run down condition, why don't you give Nerv-Worth a trial? You'll be surprised how quickly you will notice good results. It acts in a highly effective manner and its results are quickly forthcoming. It is very pleasant to take, and contains nothing harmful, and nothing to form a habit. It is something that you do not have to take forever, but which gives results that last. I do not hesitate any longer, but join the happy throng of Nerv-Worth users who have been restored to health. See Mr. Moore, Nerv-Worth specialist, at Hunter's Drug Store.

DAYTON STREET CARS START AFTER A 15-DAY TIE-UP; FARE TO BE 7 CENTS

DAYTON.—After a 15-day tie-up, the Dayton street cars were put in operation Tuesday night at 6 p. m., following adjustment of the strike on a wage basis of 58, 60, and 62 cents per hour, for the first three months' employment, six months and one year or more respectively.

In the meantime, the city commission will pass an ordinance, granting the companies a cash fare of seven cents, or eight tickets for 50 cents. Opposition to the increase in fares intimates that a referendum will be held, steps to that end having already been taken.

We Must Depend Upon Each Other

It is not to be expected that the men and women who devote all their time to the raising of crops will have at their finger tips all the ins and outs of business practice, any more than it could be expected of the banker to make a successful job of running a farm.

In all human society, as it is constituted today one class must rely upon the other, and both work in intelligent and harmonious co-operation if there is to be any kind of success.

This little advertisement is printed to bring forcibly to the attention of our friends the willingness of this sound old institution to lend its judgment and experience to all the community in the solving of various problems of business.

Why?—Because the bank grows, only as the individuals of our community prosper.

RETURNS FROM SON'S FUNERAL
Mrs. Charles Smith, 621 Greenlaw-ave, has returned from Findlay where she attended the funeral of her son, Harold E. Ward, which was held Tuesday afternoon in that city. Mr. Ward was 24 years of age at the time of his death and was unmarried. He formerly lived in Lima, and while here was connected with the Western Union offices. During the war Mr. Ward served as telegraph operator at the base hospital, Camp Sherman, Chillicothe. His father, Irvin E. Ward and a brother, Paul Ward, both of Findlay, survive him.

She says in the petition that she has never seen their child, now 16-months old, having abandoned her four months before its birth. They lived together less than five months after their marriage in June, 1918. Mrs. Alma McClain, in an action against Raymond McClain, says he provided no home and she was forced to live with his parents. When the situation became unendurable in February, last, she went to reside with her parents on S. Main-st, she declares, since which time he has contributed nothing to her support. She was Alma Morrison before her marriage.

Mrs. Lella C. Forrest, in answer to the divorce petition of Earl L. Forrest, declares they are expecting another child in their home soon and asks the court to dismiss his petition. She alleges her husband asked her to bring proceedings in divorce.

been compelled to rely upon her relatives and friends for clothing and part of the food for herself and children.

She charges Forrest has an ungovernable temper and that he punishes the children without cause and in a brutal manner.

Charles M. Gregory in his divorce petition says his wife, Anna B. Gregory, Detroit, was of a fault-finding and quarrelsome disposition and unbearable to live with. They were married in Lima on January 13, 1914.

Little White Hats

Rage in Paris

Word comes from Paris that even the devotees of black headgear in that city, are accepting with enthusiasm little white hats. The smartest of French women are wearing little white flowered turbans, tied on with black chenille dotted veils. Others are trimmed with perky little pompons of soft, furry looking feathers and some chapeaus are of taffeta, satin or faille, instead of straw. Many of these models are shown in local millinery shops.

The organdie hats for summer wear are enchanting, and universally becoming. Also the ribbon hats in bright shades to match the sweaters, and black lace hats for dress are being sold extensively. Flowers are being used this summer more extensively than for some years past.

FARMERS FEARING CAR SHORTAGE

Situation Seems to be General Thruout the Country

Local farmers are becoming alarmed at the present shortage of freight cars, since harvest time is not far away. Many of the farmers have no place to store their grain for any length of time and will need cars so they can sell and ship it immediately.

upon harvesting; according to C. Farm Agent Van Natta. This will not be possible unless present transportation facilities are improved. The farmers have been so busy lately that it is rather a shock to realize that they will soon need cars and may not be able to get them.

The alarm is not only local for reports from Columbus say that State Secretary of Agriculture Shaw is receiving word that farmers all thru the wheat belt of Ohio are worried over the scarcity of cars.

JUDITH of BLUE LAKE RANCH

By JACKSON GREGORY

Perhaps she would. At any rate she shuddered delightfully. She found a bullet-hole in the door and put a pink forefinger into it, giving a second little shiver. She nuzzled to keep her back full upon Lee.

"Oh, by the way," said Hampton, busy opening the parcel of lunch they had brought with them. "Marcia's heard all about you. Bud, you said you wanted to meet Lee. Marcia. Well, here he is, tall and handsome in a devilish reckless way, looking at the dimple at the back of your neck, Miss Langworthy, Mr. Lee. Golly, Judith, that coffee smells good!"

"You are a naughty little boy, Pollock," said Miss Langworthy coolly. Nevertheless she turned smiling to Lee and put her hand to him. "Mr. Hampton really makes quite a hero of you," she said coquettishly. "I think I have seen you from a distance, you know."

The small whiteness of her hand was swallowed up in the lean brown of his.

"Hampton's a prevaricator," he said gravely, as he looked down into the merry blue eyes turned up to him. "But he's a gentleman I have to thank for the introduction. I am very happy to know you, Miss Langworthy."

"And now," cried Marcia, slipping her hand out of Lee's and going to a chair near the table, "do tell me all about that terrible, terrible night. But do you think we are quite safe here now, Mr. Lee?"

To herself Judith was saying: "Just the type to be Bud Lee's ideal lady!"

When they left the cabin, an hour later, Judith challenged Hampton to a ride and so left Marcia and Bud Lee to follow leisurely.

Mrs. Simpson had made a discovery. It was epoch-making! It was tremendous! Nothing short of that! So, at the very least, Mrs. Simpson was prepared to maintain stoutly in the face of possible ridicule.

Though, as Judith's housekeeper, she had sufficient household duties on her plump shoulders to send a less doughty woman creeping wearily to bed with the chickens, she found time before the dawn and long after nightfall to keep her eye upon that Black Spanish and his recruit and treacherous ally, Fujiki.

One morning, very early, Mrs. Simpson, from the thick curtains of the living-room, saw Jose "proving around suspicious-like in the courtyard." She thrilled at the sight. She always thrilled to Jose. The half-breed had gone silently, "sneaking-like," by Judith's outer door. He had paused there, listening. He had gone back to the courtyard, hesitating, pretending that he was looking at the roses. Such a ruse on the part of so black-hearted a villain inspired in the scarcely breathing Mrs. Simpson a vast disgust. As if he could fool her like that, pottering around among the roses!

She, too, sought to move silently.

In his wake, though under her ample weight the veranda creaked audibly. Still, making less noise than usual, she peered through the lilacs. She saw Jose at the base of the knoll, going swiftly toward the stables. She saw another man who, evidently, was a third of the "gang," and who, of course, had risen early to creep out of the men's bunk-house before the others were awake, to meet Jose. Screening herself behind the lilacs, her heart throbbing as it had not done for many a long year, she watched.

Jose and the other man did meet. Jose stopped. The two exchanged a few words, too low for Mrs. Simpson to hear at that distance. But she made out that the other man had something in his hand, something white. A pigeon! For, suddenly released, it fluttered out of the man's hands and, circling high above Mrs. Simpson's head, flew to join the other birds cooing on the housetop.

"A carrier-pigeon!" gasped Mrs. Simpson. "Taking a message to the other outposts?"

From that instant there was no doubt in her mind. This fitted in too well with her many suspicions not to be the clew she had sought long and unceasingly.

Jose went on, the man from the bunk-house went back into it, and Mrs. Simpson fled to the house and hastened excitedly to Judith's room.

Judith, rudely awakened, came hurriedly to her door in her dressing-gown, her eyelids heavy with sleep. When she heard, she laughed. "You dear old goose!" cried Judith joyously. "I just love you to death. You put fresh interest into life."

Despite Mrs. Simpson's earnest protests, Judith hugged her and pushed her out again, saying that since she was awake now she would want her breakfast just as soon as she could get it. The housekeeper shook her head and retreated heavily.

"You've got to show some folks a man cutting their throats," she muttered to herself, "before they'll believe it. It is a carrier-pigeon and I know it. And that Black Spanish—ugh! He makes my blood curdle, just to look at him!"

"Carrier-pigeons!" laughed Judith, as she put on a hurried dressing. "The dear old goose! And poor old Jose. She'll get something on him yet. I wonder why she—"

Suddenly Judith broke off. She was standing in front of a tall mirror, still only half-dressed. As she looked into the bright face of the smiling girl in the glass, a sudden change came. Pigeons! Doe Tripp had said that Trevers had got them; had remarked on the incongruity of a man like Trevers caring for little cooing birds. It was rather odd. Carrier-pigeons—carrier!

Judith, whirling on her dressing gown again and, slipperless, her warm bare feet patting upon the cold surfaces of the polished floors, she ran to the office.

"Send Jose to me," she called to Mrs. Simpson. "In the office. I want him immediately."

Mrs. Simpson's glow came into Mrs. Simpson's breast. With a big kitchen poker behind her broad back, she hastened out to call Jose. Judith at the telephone, called for Doe Tripp.

"Come up immediately," she commanded. "Prepare to make a test for hog-cholera germs. Doc. No, I am not sure of anything, but I think I begin to see where it came from and how. Hurry, will you?"

To Jose she said abruptly: "Go down to the men's quarters. Tell Carson and Lee to come right up. And as Jose turned to go, she added carelessly, "Seen any of the men yet?"

"Si, senorita," answered Jose. "Poker Face is up."

The other little was about, then. Jose took little more time for his errand than for his elaborate bow. Carson and Lee came promptly. Carson a score of steps in advance, for Lee had tarried just long enough to wash his face and brush his hair; Carson had not.

"Tell me," demanded Judith, looking at her callow men with intent eagerness. "What do you know about Poker Face?"

"One of the best men I've got," answered Carson heartily. "Square, you think?"

"Yes, if I didn't think so he'd have been on his way a long time ago."

"How long has he been here? Who took him?"

"Trevers hired him. About the same time he hired me." Bud Lee, entering then, wondered what new thing was afoot. He glanced down and saw a bare foot peeping out from the hem of Judith's heavy red robe; he saw the hair tumbled in a glorious brown confusion over her shoulders. She was amazingly pretty this way.

"I want you two men to just stick around until I send for you again," said Judith, her eyes upon Carson alone, a little pink, naked foot suddenly withdrawn and tucked somewhere under her in her chair. "And keep your eyes on Poker Face. Keep him here, too, Carson. By the way, did any of you boys come in late last night? Or early this morning?"

"Why, no," answered Carson slowly. "An' yes. None of the regular boys but a man from down the river, looking for a job. Heard we was short-handed. Blew in early."

Just got in a few moments ago, Poker Face said."

Quick new interest flew into Judith's eyes.

"Keep him here, too!" she cried. "And I'll give you something to do while you wait: bring me all the pigeons you can get your hands on—white ones. Shoot them if you have to. And be careful you don't rub the dust on their feet!"

Carson's eyes went swiftly to Bud Lee's. In Carson's mind there was a quick suspicion: The strain of life on the ranch was proving too much for a girl, after all.

LOVE AND MARRIED LIFE

By IDA MCGLONE GIBSON

FLIRTING WITH JOHN

It seemed to me that I had hardly got settled before I heard Alice's voice at the door.

"Oh you dear, you dear," she cried as she hugged me with an enthusiasm and affection I had never before seen in her. "I got down to the train just too late. Tom made me promise that I would bring you all home with me, for of course we both knew that you could not go to mother's under the impossible circumstances. I do not think I have ever seen Tom so angry in his life as he was this morning when, after I had been over to mother's, I came back and told him that Elizabeth Moreland, who was pleasantly domiciled in your rooms, had set up two temporary beds among all your miscellaneous furniture and expected you to live there until you were ready to go into your house."

Most Disgraceful Business

"I had the pleasure of telling her that I thought it was the most disgraceful business that I had ever known a decent woman to be concerned in. Even mother washed her hands of it all and tearfully explained to me when I went into her room later, that she was altogether too old to be mixed up in such an affair."

"I saw Elizabeth getting into your car as I rounded the corner to the station. Charles evidently didn't hear me when I called to you, for he drove away. I followed and I told you on the street and told him that I thought you might let them make a fool of you."

"Don't you worry, Alice dear," he said. "You go up to the hotel and you will find Katherine in the best suite of rooms in the house. 'Do you think she will do it, Tom?' I asked him. 'You just told me to that hotel and there you'll find her.' And here I am and here you are," she said ecstatically, giving me another hug.

"And now let's see that blessed bunch of a baby."

"Proudly I took her in where Mary was being made ready for her nap. 'I think it is the most beautiful baby I ever saw,' she exclaimed. 'So do I,' I answered seriously. 'I heard a discreet chuckle and turning, found Miss Parker looking out of the window.'"

Entire Second Floor

"Well, I dislike to disturb you," said Alice, "but of course you are counting hours with me. I'll put the whole second floor at your disposal."

"My dear Alice," I said with a smile, "I wouldn't think of discriminating you for the world."

Alice understood, for when we went back into my own rooms she said, "Good for you, Katherine. There is one way you can open John's eyes to Elizabeth Moreland's selfishness and that is by making him see that his pocketbook is getting noticeably flatter every day. I imagine from the looks of these rooms that he won't have to sit up and take notice, for he can see the sides of his pocketbook coming together even in his dreams. Have you seen him yet? What has he said? I wouldn't have thought that he would have let you come here."

Judith, reading his blot, turned up her nose at him and, seeking to keep her feet hidden as she walked by sagging a little at the knees, went to the door. Turning there, she saw Lee eyes the hint of a smile, a very approving, admiring smile.

"Impudent!" she cried within herself. Looking very tiny, her knees bent so that her robe might sweep the floor, she continued with all possible dignity to the hallway. Once there, she ran for her room, her gown fluttering widely about her. In her room, she shut the door hurriedly, she still took time for a long and critical examination of two rows of "little pink toes."

"Just the same," she said to the flushed Judith in the mirror, "they are very nice feet—Bud Lee. I'd just like to make you squirm one of these days. You're altogether too—oh, seat, Judy. What's the matter with you?"

DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

Posed again for Morgan this a. m. and at one o'clock Jack and Laura called for us both in the car and we all went off to luncheon together up at Blossom Kitchen Inn. It was beautiful in the country, and we were all so happy, you're no idea.

Jack had explained away Laura's lost doubt, and in fact the poor child had apologized to me when she first saw me at the studio, despite the fact I laughed at her and told her that such was all unnecessary, and most nonsensical.

Then, too, she had been with her Morgan the night before, and from the radiant look on both their faces I should judge that they had passed the honey-sweet hours in the same manner that we had.

We were all very gay and possessive at the luncheon table, and to all appearances there had never been a doubt in the minds of any of us as to the wisdom of our engagements. Such is life, and youth.

I have come to the conclusion that Laura is really quite a nice girl. She is open and frank and more sentimental than I, and ever dreamt possible. After all, you seldom get to know a girl unless you get her by herself, or rather anywhere from the influence of her own family—that is to say, the older members of it.

Laura, it seems, also suffers greatly from too many relations. We managed to have a little heart-to-heart talk while the boys were smoking and looking over the car, before we motored back to town. She suffers from a small brother, who has my Nanny Lashed to the mast for disagreeableness, if all accounts are true. My heart warmed to Laura when she confided some of her other woes to me. It seems that it was not she who was so much upset by my posing at Morgan's studio yesterday. Not so—it was mother! I might have known it all the time. For youth does stick to youth after all.

Yes, Mrs. Edmunds has never approved of Morgan or his work. To her he is "one of those new do as it artists; shiftless, and no doubt loose-moralled!" I know all that she thinks, so there was no need for Laura to go into details.

Of course when she had suggested calling for Morgan in the car yesterday Laura had fallen into the trap, only dreaming that what her mother was really hoping for was for I what they discovered, with the exception of me, Mrs. Edmunds hoped to have Laura find Morgan with some model and be so horrified at the sight and the realization that this sort of thing was to figure eternally in her future life with an artist that she would see the light and be persuaded to break off her engagement to him, and in time marry a decent member of society.

So in defending me my Jack had also defended Morgan and his own sister's future. Something must have told that boy just what was going on in his mother's mind, and as much as he loves her he also is a lover of love, and of justice!

I have discovered that Laura, as she explained to me, "After all I'm so tickled to get away from my own stupid, conventional existence that everything that Morgan does and everything about my new life will be wonderful to me. The more Bohemian the better it will suit me. You can understand this, Lindsey?" You bet I can.

Clara Can't Help It if Men Fall in Love With Her

STARS IN "FORBIDDEN WOMAN"

Picture in a Thousand and Certain to Please

BY ESTHER WAGNER

IT'S NO NEWS to many of you that Clara Kimball Young is a splendid actress. She has been for years. But it is in "The Forbidden Woman" that the fine points of her acting are brought to the surface.

"The title would imply that in this picture she is a naughty girl. But she's not. How can she help it if all the men, old and young, fall deeply and passionately in love with her, who she rewards them only with her bewitching smiles? Then when one of them, married at that, is spurned, and promptly commits suicide society ostracizes her and she leaves with her manager for a quiet peaceful spot in the country to forget.

Here it is that Diane Sorel, as she is known, meets the true love she has been longing for. And her true love is none other than Conway Tearle, the popular strong arm to lean against; the well known bulwark in moments of feminine distress that both stars and fans love best.

If this were a fairy tale, the happy couple would now wed and live happily ever after. But as it is a modern tale, there must be an impediment to their marriage. And this comes in the form of the lover's sister, who, it is learned, was the wife of the gentleman whom Diane drove to suicide.

Magnificence and lavishness mark all the settings and costumes, and the pastoral scenes are lovely. The supporting cast is excellent, although it is small, and the picture doesn't drag the least bit. I think it can be summed up by saying that it's a picture in a thousand, and well worth your while. It is showing at the Regent.

The Lyric today is showing "The Veil of Marriage" with an all-star cast.

TELLS HOW SHE OBTAINED RELIEF

She Had Dizzy Spells, Spots Floated Before her eyes, was quite nervous, had pains in her limbs and slept poorly

KIDNEY TROUBLE IS GONE

Gives all praise to the new remedy Drecto, which is causing so much favorable talk in and around Lima

"I was certainly one sick and ailing person when I began taking Drecto, but now I have a different tale to tell," is how Mrs. Jay Morrison, 775 S. Union St., Lima, O., expressed her feelings.

"I had a very sluggish liver, which gave me bad dizzy spells and spots before my eyes, and I could hardly thread a needle when these spells struck me. I became very nervous and my sleep was not refreshing to me, and I would wake up with that tired yawning feeling. My tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth most all of the time."

"My kidneys caused a lot of trouble and these terrible, aching pains in my back almost drove me mad. My joints were sore and it hurt to bend them, and my muscles often became sore to the touch. Now I tell you I was in a pretty bad way, and had found no medicine that helped me. I kept reading from day to day about the new root and herb medicine, Drecto, so I determined to try it, and I am proud to say that I am feeling like a different person altogether. All my ailments have passed off, and I am feeling young and spry. Never have any pain over my kidneys nor in my joints; liver is acting fine and I haven't had a dizzy spell since the first week I started on Drecto. I tell you it is great medicine, and you can sure put this in the papers, for I don't care who knows that it did me good."

Drecto is made from the juices of twelve different herbs, roots, barks and berries, which act directly upon the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder and the blood, and tends to relieve constipation, headaches, rheumatism, catarrh, biliousness, dizzy spells, heart fluttering, gas on the stomach and other troubles.

Drecto is sold by all good druggists throughout the country, and is highly recommended in Lima by Baldwin's Central Drug Store, corner Main and High-sts.

Bremer in "Athletis" were designed by the author himself, Robert W. Chambers.

Alice Joyce has completed her latest special production "The Vice of Fools."

Otis Skinner's great stage success "Kismet" will soon be made into a movie, with Mr. Skinner heading the cast.

Hope Hampton's next picture will have its chief scenes on the beach at Waikiki.

Mary Miles Minter is going abroad. She says she's going to visit the Orient.

Eugene O'Brien's next picture will be "The Thug." The story was written by H. H. Van Loan.

Over a hundred cats are used in one of the scenes of Mary Pickford's new picture "Spuds."

Slow but steady improvement is reported for Herbert Standing, who was seriously injured when struck by a street car last month.

NOTES

Wesley Barry, 12 years old, is the youngest star in the movies. He was "discovered" by Marshall Neilan while fighting some boys on the streets of Los Angeles.

Theresa Maxwell-Conover, who scored a great success in New York in "My Lady Friends" has an important part in Elaine Hammerstein's next picture.

Jack Pickford is starred in "The Emile Chautard, famous French director, has started work on "The Thief" the first of a series of super-specials which he will make for Wm. Fox.

William Farnum's next picture will be a Western tale. The title is day time.

MUTT AND JEFF—IT'S LUCKY FOR JEFF THAT MUTT READS THE PAPERS—

By McMANUS

Short Shavings

A vigorous-looking woman boarded a car and pushed a small boy down on the seat. The other passengers noticed that the boy had his head completely hidden by a tightly fitting saucerpan, and their sympathetic inquiries elicited the fact that his unhappy mother was taking the equally unhappy youth to the hospital to "have it took off."

"But how did he get it on his head?" asked the passenger.

"He was playin' at soldiers, and wanted a helmet, so he took the saucerpan," said the mother.

"It'll be a bad job for him!" said another passenger.

"It's a wuss one for me," retorted the mother; "it's the only saucerpan I've got, and there's my breakfast in it!"

A druggist was boasting in the company of his friends of his well assorted stock in trade. "There isn't a drug missing," he said; "not even of the most uncommon sort."

"Come now," said one of the bystanders, by the way of a joke, "I'm sure you don't keep spirits of contradiction, as well stocked as you are."

"Why not?" said the druggist, not in the least embarrassed. "You shall see for yourself." So saying he left the room and returned leading his wife by the hand.

"Do you believe in translocation of souls?" asked the little man.

"Sure," replied the big man.

"Why?"

"Nothing," answered the little man. "But it says here that there are birds in Africa with bills a yard long."

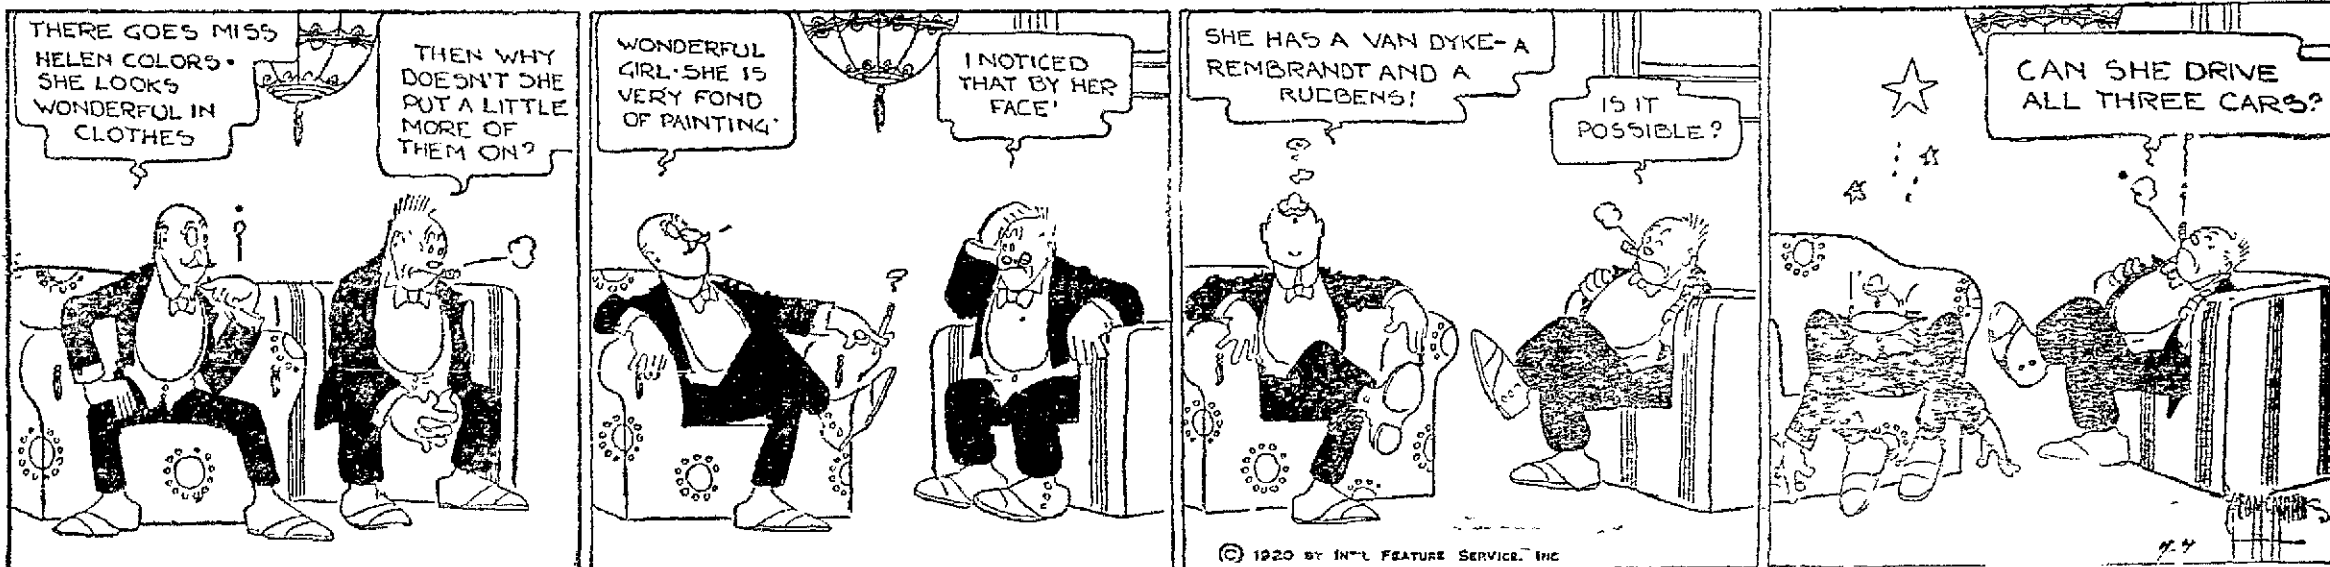

"Well, what about that?" demanded the big man.

"I was just wondering if those birds are not the spirits of departed plumbers," replied the little man.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over thirty years, has borne the signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher, and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Last Corn

When you end your corn with Blue-jay, it will be the last corn you let grow. You will know how to stop the pain. And how to quickly and completely end all corns.

There are millions who use Blue-jay now, and they never let a corn remain.

The new-day way

Blue-jay is the new-day way, the scientific method.

It was perfected in a laboratory world-famed for its surgical dressings.

It is supplanting the many treatments which are harsh and inefficient.

It has made paring as ridiculous as it is unsafe, for paring doesn't end corns.

Do this tonight:

Apply to a corn a Blue-jay plaster or liquid Blue-jay—whichever you prefer.

Mark how the pain stops. Then wait a little and the corn will loosen and come out.

© B. & N. 1928

What that corn does all corns will do. Some 20 million corns a year are ended in this way.

Don't suffer corns. Don't have your feet disfigured. They can be ended almost as easily as a dirt-spot on your face. They are just as incurable.

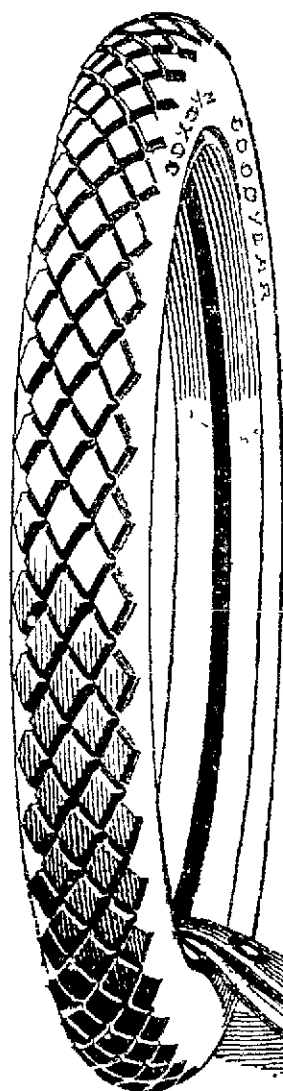

Don't forget this. It means too much to you.

Ask your druggist for Blue-jay.
